

Describing landforms

Earth and water

Fill in the blanks.

mountain ocean valley
lake river hill plains

A _____ is a mound of raised land with a rounded top that is smaller than a mountain.

A freshwater stream that flows continuously across the land is called a _____.

Low land lying between two mountains or hills is known as a _____.

A _____ is a large body of standing water completely surrounded by land.

Wide stretches of mostly flat, open ground are called _____.

A _____ is a very high, steep piece of land that towers high above the surrounding area.

The huge body of saltwater that covers most of the Earth is called an _____.